Cardinals Team Info: Some football fans may find it hard to believe that a team that toiled in mediocrity for so long is actually the oldest continuing professional football team in America: In 1901 the team changed their name to the Racine Cardinals. Later in 1920, the team became a charter member of the American Professional Football Association which eventually became the NFL in 1922.

Jumping ahead several decades the team moved to St. Louis in 1960, the Cardinals reached the playoffs in 1964 led by QB Jim Hart and WR Sonny Randle. It took another Eagles Team Info : After being granted an NFL franchise by Pete Rozelle for the 1966 season, it would take 13 long years before the Atlanta Falcons made their first postseason appearance. In 1977, under head coach Leeman Bennett, the Falcons held opponents to just 129 points - the fewest ever allowed in a 14-game season, although the team still finished 7-7. The following year quarterback Steve Bartkowski and receiver Wallace Francis led them to their first playoff victory against the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Falcons won their first division title in 1980, but it wasn't until the next decade that Ravens Team Info: The Baltimore Ravens franchise was born out of controversy in 1996, when owner Art Modell decided he wanted to move the franchise he owned, the Cleveland Browns, to Baltimore. Representatives from Cleveland and the NFL head office reached an agreement that team would move to Baltimore, but that the Browns' name, colors, and franchise history would remain in Cleveland. This meant the team needed a new name, and a fan contest drawing 33,288 votes selected the name "Ravens".

In the team's inaugural season, quarterback Vinny Testaverde threw 33 touchdowns.

Panthers Team Info: On October 26, 1993 the league announced that NFL owners had unanimously decided to award a franchise to the city of Charlotte, North Carolina. A group led by former Baltimore Colt Jerry Richardson had lobbied hard to unite businessmen, politicians and citizens and they were rewarded for their efforts. Led by head coach Don Capers, the Carolina Panthers finished a respectable 7-9 in their inaugural season, but the big surprise came in 1996 when they outright won the NFC West. The Panthers drafted quarterback Kerry Collins in 1995 and strengthened their roster via free agents like linebacker Sam Mills

Patriots Team Info: This modern football dynasty was originally named the Boston Patriots when it became an original member of the American Football League in 1960. It wasn't until after the league merger and the move to Foxborough in 1971, that they became known as the New England Patriots. The teams early years were undistinguished apart from a Divisional Playoff victory against the Chargers in 1963. After a string of losing seasons, Steve Grogan led The Pats to the playoffs in 1976. In 1985, the "Cinderella" Patriots appeared in Super Bowl XX, led again

Saints Team Info: The New Orleans Saints entered the NFL in the 1967 season, but struggled for more than a decade to reach the .500 mark in 1979. In 1971 the team drafted Ole Miss quarterback Archie Manning who led the NFC in passing yards in 1972 despite the team's poor record. In 1978 he was named NFC Player of the Year. In 1986, Jim Mora took over as head coach of the team and rookie Rueben Mays rushed for 1,353 yards. The following

Location: Tampa, Florida

NFL Championships: Super Bowl XXXVII (2002)

Buccaneers Team Info: After entering the NFL in 1976, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers lost their first 26 games in franchise history - talk about having a rough start! But it didn't take long for them to turn things around and three seasons later they were celebrating their first playoff victory. In 1979 the Bucs won the NFC Central with a 10-6 record and defeated the Philadelphia Eagles in the playoffs, led by Ricky Bell's 142 yards rushing and a touchdown pass by Doug Williams (the first black starting quarterback for any NFL team). In 1982 the Bucs won five of their last six games earning the nickname the "Cardiac Kids" and another visit to the playoffs after a strike-shortened season.

The Buccaneers entered a dark period between the years 1983-1996 when the closest they came to a winning record was 7-9 in 1995. New ownership delivered a godsend; however, in 1996 hiring new head coach Tony Dungy. Dungy imparted a winning attitude and an awesome Cover-2 defensive scheme which featured Warren Sapp, John Lynch and Derrick Brooks. The very next season, the reenergized team won their first playoff game in 14 years.

After acquiring head coach Jon Gruden in a controversial trade with the Raiders, the Bucs had succeeded in recruiting a fiery coach obsessed with leading the team to victory. Not only did Tampa Bay reach the Promised Land in 2003, but they hammered the Raiders 48-21 to win Super Bowl XXXVII.

NFL Picks: Week 1

Although it's been quite a few years since I've dropped any of my own money on any NFL games, I still get a big kick out of picking each week's winners.

Having said that, when I was a gambling man, I took my "work" quite seriously and won nearly $1,000 three consecutive years, wagering small amounts on a couple of my best picks each week.

Why I stopped gambling, I'll never know (especially since I won most of the time). However, I haven't stopped making my picks and checking them each week -- and kicking myself in the rear for not putting any money down on the games.

Personal gambling tales aside, here are my selections for week one.

NFL Taker Off!

Now, before I go any further, let me say that, when I was a gambling man, I used to always tell people not to bet much on week one games. My preference was to just sit back and enjoy the first week of the season as a spectator. My rule of thumb says that week one usually serves up quite a few upsets, so be wary of any pick that you don't consider a "lock."

Okay, now that I'm through giving out gambling tips, away we go.

Miami PK at Pittsburgh

Take the Dolphins for the outright win. The Fish have a chip the size of Mount Rushmore on their collective shoulders and would literally run through a wall for head coach Nick

The Sunday night contest will be the first ever Manning Bowl and will pit two brother quarterbacks against each other for the first time. Peyton seems like an obvious choice from this foursome but the Colts may be out to prove that they have a functional running game on national television while the Giants may be out to prove that their secondary is upgraded. NFL Betting: 2006 Minnesota Vikings Preview

Quarterback

Brad Johnson proved last season that he could still be effective when he gets adequate pass protection in the pocket. The 38-year-old veteran is one of the smartest quarterbacks in the league and still has enough arm left to make the tough throws as well. Johnson also has a firm grasp of the west coast offense that Childress will install. If Johnson goes down though, the Vikes could be in trouble. Backup quarterback, Mike McMahon has may be one of the most mobile quarterbacks in the league, it's too bad the man has a football IQ that's in single digits.

Running Back

The Vikings' running back situation has miraculously "whizzed" itself clean. Minnesota will start veterans, Chester Taylor at tailback and Tony Richardson at fullback. Neither of the pair is what I would call a "threat" to score from anywhere on the field, but both players are more than competent. Although it should be a stretch to see what Taylor can do...

NFL Betting: 2006 New England Patriots Preview

I know the Patriots have lost some key players to free agency this past off-season, but until both, Tom Brady and Bill Belichick are no longer part of the Patriots organization, I'm not prepared to count them out of anything.

Having said that, I realize that a lot of people are enamored right now with the Miami Dolphins prospective return to the upper echelon of the NFL, but until the 'Fins forcefully take away, at least the AFC East division title, I am going on record to say that the Patriots will once again find a way to conjure up a double-digit win season.

Here is my 2006 preview for the New England Patriots.

Quarterback

Tom Brady may have led the NFL in passing yards in 2005 (4,110 yards), but I actually believe less of Brady's arm - and a better mix of positive rushing yards - would produce better results for the Patriots in 2006 than they did in 2005.

However, it's hard to argue with a guy who threw for 26 touchdowns last season; however he did mix in an un-Brady-like 14 interceptions.

One thing I will say though is that, should Brady go down at some point in the regular season, the Patriots can absolutely kiss their season goodbye. Second-year man, Matt Cassel, is nowhere ready to take over, so this position could become a problem for the Patriots at some point, as idiotic as that may sound for a team with a three-time Super Bowl winning quarterback calling at the helm.

In the Huddle: NFL Picks and Predictions

Get into the huddle with football experts: Anthony Oxley, Blake Butterfield and Marc Reichertz as they go head-to-head every week with their NFL picks and predictions. Follow them through the NFL 2006 season right up to the Superbowl as they each try to pick winners on the spread!

People, I've been waiting seven long painful months for this moment, and now it is finally here. What am I talking about? I'm talking about NFL Opening Weekend, baby! To me, this is better than a holiday, because holidays last what... when we talking about Christmas, it lasts pretty much until New Year's... so about a week. Opening Weekend tells me that I will be in good spirits for at least the next 5 months! It don't get no better than this. The NFL season starts this weekend! Let's rock and roll!

ATLANTA +6 AT CAROLINA -6

All I can say is that I hope I get to watch this game on the tele; talk about a barnburner to kick things off on a sunny Sunday. The Falcons boast one of the league's most dynamic players in QB Michael Vick and one of the brashest in CB DeAngelo Hall. The Panthers have their best offensive player, WR Steve Smith, listed as questionable with hammy problems, but their defense is bad, bad and triple-bad to the bone with 6'7", 285-pound DE Julius Peppers leading the ferocity. Atlanta has a good team, but this is the definition of a hostile environment. Opening day in Carolina! Strap 'em up!

PREDICTION: PANTHERS to cover

SAN FRANCISCO +7.5 AT ARIZONA -7.5

I'll come right out and say it: Why waste time, eh? Time is precious to many of us... a precious commodity... So here it is. The 49ers have no chance in this game; no chance whatsoever. They are going into Cardinal land to face an Arizona team that has

Unauthorized Use of NFL Intellectual Property

Dear Mr. Foreman:

Our firm represents NFL Properties LLC ("NFL Properties"), the exclusive licensee and representative of the National Football League (the "NFL") and its member clubs for various commercial licenses and the protection of their names, logos, symbols and other identifying marks (collectively, the "NFL Trademarks").

NFL Properties recently learned that you are making unauthorized use of various NFL Trademarks on a web site located at www.betus.com, including, but not limited to, the specially-designed SUPER BOWL XL logo, the SUPER BOWL mark, the Vince Lombardi Trophy and the famous logos, uniform designs and helmet designs of various NFL member clubs. In addition, NFL Properties has learned that you are making unauthorized use of various NFL Trademarks, including logos of NFL member clubs, in the 2005-2006 Swimsuit Calendar (the "Calendar") marketed by betus.com.

These unauthorized uses of the NFL Trademarks have caused serious and irreparable harm to the NFL and its member clubs because consumers are likely mistakenly to believe that your website and/or the services or promotions offered on your site, as well as the Calendars, are sponsored, endorsed or licensed by, or otherwise affiliated with, the NFL or the member clubs. These activities are, therefore, unlawful pursuant to Sections 32 and 43(a) of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1114, 1125(a).

These unauthorized uses also dilute the NFL Trademarks in violation of Section 43(c) of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1125(c). In addition, your conduct constitutes unfair competition, deceptive acts and practices and misappropriation of the valuable goodwill, reputation and business property of the NFL and the member clubs.

February 2, 2006

Please be further advised that your operation of a business using the Internet for the transmission of bets or wagers on NFL games violates federal criminal law. See, e.g., 18 U.S.C. § 1084 (person "engaged in the business of betting or wagering" that uses a "wire communication . . . for the transmission . . . of bets or wagers . . . on any sporting event or contest" commits a crime); United States v. Cohen, 260 F.3d 68 (2d Cir. 2001). The NFL and NFL Properties strongly object to the content and nature of your site.

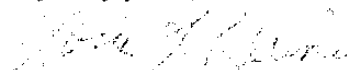

Finally, we understand you have an arrangement with Mr. Alan Bachand of TailgateUS.com whereby you compensate him in exchange for advertising space on his website and on buses that travel to various NFL stadiums on and around the days NFL games are played, including before and during Super Bowl XL in Detroit. The NFL objects strongly to this arrangement, and considers it particularly egregious in light of the NFL's strong stance against gambling activities.

The NFL and its member clubs take these violations extremely seriously. Accordingly, we demand that you immediately cease any and all uses of any NFL Trademarks, or any marks confusingly similar thereto, on your website, in your Calendar, and in connection with any goods, services or promotions offered by betus.com. In addition, we demand that you cease advertising on any bus or other promotional vehicle that travels in or around the property surrounding any stadium at which NFL games are played, including buses in the vicinity of Ford Field at or near the time of Super Bowl XL.

Should you refuse to cooperate, NFL Properties and the Member Clubs reserve the right to take appropriate steps to enforce and protect the NFL's and the Member Clubs' trademark rights.

Please call me directly at (212) 909-6191 if you have any questions.

Very truly yours,

Lorin L. Reisner

Unauthorized Giveaway of Tickets

Dear Mr. Foreman:

As you know, we are counsel to NFL Properties LLC ("NFL Properties"), which represents the National Football League (the "NFL") and its member clubs in the enforcement of their intellectual property rights. We previously contacted you in February regarding your unauthorized use of various NFL trademarks.

It has come to our attention that betus.com is engaged in the unauthorized giveaway of Super Bowl tickets. Specifically, betus.com is running advertisements which offer listeners the opportunity to win Super Bowl tickets for life. Such a giveaway violates the express terms set forth on the back of Super Bowl tickets, which prohibit the use of game tickets in connection with "advertising, promotion or any other commercial purposes (including contests, sweepstakes and giveaways)" without the express written consent of the NFL. This violation is particularly egregious given the NFL's strong stance against gambling activities.

Please be advised that the NFL has the right, and hereby expressly reserves the right, to refuse to honor any tickets you purport to award to anyone entering your contests. You are therefore on notice that the NFL reserves the right to eject from the stadium anyone occupying the seats corresponding to any tickets you award, as well as to refuse entry to any contest winners. See Transworld Airlines, Inc. v. American Coupon Exchange, Inc., 913 F.2d 676 (9th Cir. 1990) (enforcing airline's tariff restricting the transfer of frequent flyer coupons against holder of brokered coupons); Collister v. Hayman, 183 N.Y. 250 (1905) (upholding theater's decision to refuse admission to those who purchased tickets from a ticket broker who violated the terms and conditions of the ticket); Levine v. Brooklyn Nat'l League Baseball Club, Inc., 179 Misc. 2d, 36 N.Y.S.2d 474 (Kings Co. 1942) (upholding the right of the Dodgers to restrict the re-sale of Dodgers tickets and to refuse all tickets transferred in violation thereof). This, of course, would render literally false and unlawful the statements made by you claiming that contest winners will be able to attend the Super Bowl game.

In addition, your unauthorized use of the SUPER BOWL® mark (the "Mark") in connection with the unauthorized giveaway is causing serious and irreparable harm to the NFL because consumers are likely mistakenly to believe that your unauthorized giveaway of Super Bowl game tickets is sponsored, endorsed or licensed by, or otherwise affiliated with, the NFL. These activities are, therefore, unlawful pursuant to Sections 32 and 43(a) of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1114, 1125(a).

Your unauthorized use of the Mark also dilutes it in violation of Section 43(c) of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1125(c). In addition, your conduct constitutes unfair competition, deceptive acts and practices and misappropriation of the valuable goodwill, reputation and business property of the NFL.

Please confirm in writing by 3:00 P.M. on Friday, September 1, 2006 that betus.com has discontinued permanently all uses of NFL tickets as promotional items, including as part of any giveaways, and has ceased any and all use of the Mark in any related advertising or marketing materials. If we do not hear from you by that time, we will assume you are uninterested in resolving this matter amicably.

You may contact me directly at (212) 909-6118 if you have any questions. This letter is written without waiver of or prejudice to any legal rights of NFL Properties, all of which are hereby expressly reserved.

Very truly yours,

Bruce P. Keller
